

HAWAII FOODBANK 2017 ANNUAL REPORT

Helping to Feed Hawaii's Hungry

Message from the Board

Dear Friends,

Aloha from Hawaii Foodbank.

For 34 years, the Hawaii Foodbank has served as a vital safety net for children, adults and seniors at risk of hunger. We collect, inspect, store and distribute food, including canned goods, perishables and fresh produce for 287,000 people statewide. If we cannot source donated food, we purchase and receive it in container loads.

We do not do it alone.

Our organization forms valuable partnerships with nearly 200 charitable agencies, retailers, manufacturers and outstanding members of the local community. We help feed one in five people in our state—including over 47,000 children and over 46,000 seniors.

We are so grateful that caring people like you support our mission and make a difference. Together, we can end hunger in Hawaii—one meal at a time.

Mahalo nui loa for your contributions toward helping to feed Hawaii's hungry.

Forward Momentum

Hawaii Foodbank Warehouse Goes Solar

In March 2017, Hawaii Foodbank and REC Solar hosted a blessing to celebrate the installation of solar energy at the warehouse in Mapunapuna. The 296.7 kilowatt DC solar energy system is expected to conserve 463,742 kilowatt hours of energy, which is equivalent to $41,041 in annual energy costs. That is enough money to purchase more than 102,000 meals to feed 93 people every day in a year.

About Our Warehouses

Hawaii Foodbank operates in two locations: Mapunapuna on Oahu and Puhi Industrial Park on Lihue, Kauai. The warehouses are 23,668 square feet and 4,750 square feet, respectively.

We source food from manufacturers/growers, retailers/wholesalers, Feeding America, community food drives, federal food commodities and food purchases.

Our organization partners with food pantries, homeless shelters, soup kitchens, domestic abuse shelters and rehabilitation centers, to distribute food through feeding programs like: Ohana Produce Plus, Feeding Our Future, Food 4 Keiki, Commodity Supplemental Food Program and Senior Farmers' Market Nutrition Program.

About Our Clients

Together, we serve low-income families, working poor, homeless individuals, disabled veterans, the under-employed/unemployed and people in need of emergency food assistance.

The most recent Hunger in America study (comprised of confidential client records and surveys conducted by the Hawaii Foodbank network of partner agencies/food banks), revealed the difficult choices that clients make to compensate various living expenses:

- 62% must choose between paying for food or utilities
- 56% must choose between paying for food or medicine
- 48% must choose between paying for food or housing
- 30% must choose between paying for food or education

HAWAII'S HUNGRY

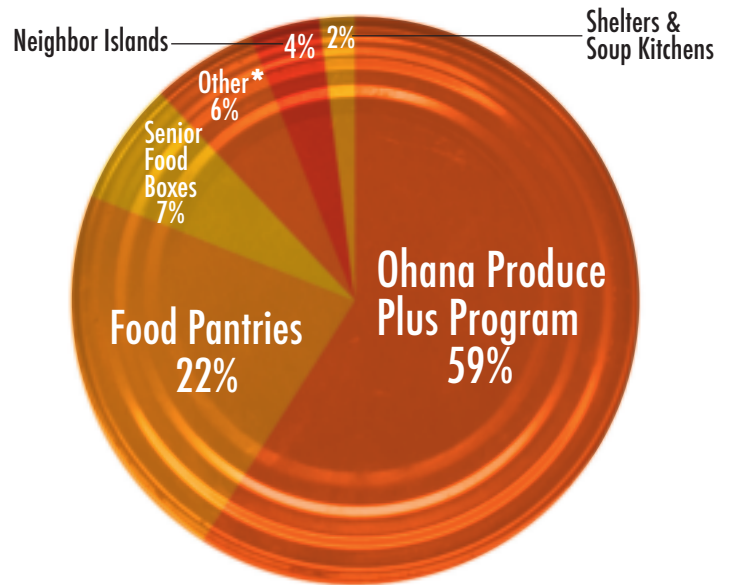

Food Donations & Distributions

Sources of Food

Hawaii Foodbank on Oahu and Kauai received over 15.1 million pounds of perishable and nonperishable food, including over 3 million pounds of fresh produce in fiscal year 2017.

The annual operating budget for food purchases enabled the acquisition of over 1.3 million pounds (inclusive to the annual total above), which filled the gap of our nutritional food supply. Our inventory of potatoes, onions, apples, pears, rice, stew, spaghetti, chili, luncheon meat and tuna are made possible by monetary donations and grant funding.

Distribution of Food

Over 13.7 million pounds of food were distributed from our warehouses on Oahu and Kauai. Over a quarter of the fiscal year 2017 total consisted of fresh produce.

Our ohana of food partner agencies, volunteers and staff assembled bags of food, prepared and served meals and organized community-wide food distributions for Hawaii residents in need of hunger relief.

Hawaii Foodbank also shipped 95,034 pounds of food to Maui Food Bank.

Senior Programs

Commodity Supplemental Food Program

The Commodity Supplemental Food Program (CSFP) otherwise known as the Senior Food Box Program, was first launched in April 2015. Our goal is to provide 2,880 seniors on Oahu and Kauai each month with supplemental foods, such as nonfat dry milk and/or UHT milk, cheese, cereal, juice, peanut butter, rice, canned meat, fruits and vegetables.

Hawaii is a state that participates in CSFP to distribute food boxes to improve the health of seniors with low income. Applicants must be Hawaii residents at least 60 years of age, and have monthly household incomes of less than $1,481 for a single or $1,985 for a couple. Certified elderly individuals are able to receive one box per month.

Senior Farmers Market Nutrition Program

The Hawaii Foodbank, in partnership with the State of Hawaii - Office of Community Services and the United States Department of Agriculture/ Food and Nutrition Service, organized the Senior Farmers' Market Nutrition Program (SFMNP) from June through October 2017.

The SFMNP vouchers provide low-income seniors with fresh fruits and vegetables with the goal of improving their health and nutritional intake. Seniors redeemed their vouchers at the following list of farmers' markets from select vendors with orange Hawaii Foodbank SFMNP placards:

Ohana Produce Plus Program

Over the last 20 years, the Hawaii Foodbank and our member agencies have distributed millions of pounds of fresh produce and food to underserved communities on Oahu, through the Ohana Produce Plus Program. Donated and purchased food have been distributed in communities island-wide to low-income families, seniors, disabled, homeless individuals and the working poor.

Last year, the Foodbank worked with 28 member agencies to distribute over 2.5 million pounds of fresh produce and nearly 4.8 million pounds of baked goods, dairy products, eggs, cereal, snack foods and beverages.

Ohana community food distributions provided food for more than 20,000 people per month, on average. Each person received food for a household of two or more members. For many families, the Ohana Produce Plus Program is their only source of fresh fruits and vegetables.

Food 4 Keiki

May 25, 2017 was the final Food 4 Keiki distribution of the 2016 - 2017 school year. The Kamehameha Lions Club eagerly awaited the arrival of the students of Princess Victoria Kaiulani Elementary School in Kalihi for the food distribution. When the kids stopped by the classroom to pick up their assorted food packages, they were happy to see the Lions Club members. The students ranging from kindergarten to fifth grade were very grateful for their food. The two groups exchanged good-byes and best wishes for the summer.

Food 4 Keiki is a unique program which provides extra meals for the keiki at the Princess Victoria Kaiulani Elementary School on Fridays to sustain them over the weekends and on school breaks.

Feeding Our Future

The Sodexo Foundation and the Hawaii Foodbank have partnered over the past 13 years to organize Feeding Our Future—a summer lunch program for children at risk of hunger. Each year, the Sodexo Foundation buys a $25,000 supply of food for the program. The food is then stored in the Sodexo facility at University of Hawaii at Manoa, where the staff cook hot meals for participating Foodbank agencies to pick up and distribute.

Mahalo to our member agencies for distributing lunches to keiki in need:
